Long Beach Launch!

"So how did you get involved with Cru?" I (Scott) asked Jessica, a senior at Long Beach State University.

She replied, "I was walking to class one day last year, and I saw one of those signs in the grass advertising Cru. So I decided to check it out."

It's just that simple sometimes. A sign in the grass, a survey at the union, or a card handed out on the way to your car. And now Jessica is helping other students at "Beach" learn about Cru and about Jesus!

The Cru movement has been small recently at Long Beach State, even though our presence on campus dates back to the 1980s! We only have a couple of staff that work with students on campus just one day per week. They're on the team that splits their time between Long Beach State University and Cal State Fullerton, a combined student population of over 75,000!

To help the small but growing movement there, several of our office staff came out last week to give some extra manpower to their official re-launch. We set up a table by the bookstore, put up banners, and handed out hundreds of cards with a personal invitation to check out Cru. At 3:30 pm a small group of new students showed up to find out more about Cru at our informational meeting! The movement continues to grow!

Thanks for partnering with us to enable more and more college students to live out their faith in Jesus and introduce others to Him! "I thank God in all my remembrance of you...because of your partnership in the gospel..."
